

In re appln. Anthony Jones
Serial No. 10/010,123

AMENDMENTS TO THE CLAIMS

Claim 1 (Currently amended): A shoe for providing applying a therapeutic solution and treatment of for a user's foot, said shoe including a waterproof flexible shoe member having a sidewall portion structurally arranged to seal the shoe member about the foot and a sole portion adapted to receive a therapeutic solution and a user's foot therein; said shoe member being structurally arranged to receive and enclose the user's foot with the therapeutic solution therearound, with said sole portion having an inner upper surface engageable with the user's foot and [[a]] an outer lower surface engageable with a supporting surface, with said inner upper surface of said sole portion having flexible texturizing members thereon which engage the user's foot to ~~treat the same~~ facilitate the medical effectiveness of the therapeutic treatment of the foot during movement of the user's foot within the shoe wherein said sidewall portion of the shoe member has an upper end portion having sealing means which secures the shoe to the ankle/leg of the user to prevent escape of the therapeutic solution from the shoe during therapeutic treatment.

Claim 2 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 1, wherein said flexible texturizing members are elongated fibers secured to said inner upper surface of said sole portion.

Claim 3 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 1, wherein said texturizing members are positioned to said inner upper surface of said sole portion to cooperate and engage at least the heel of the user's foot.

In re appln. Anthony Jones
Serial No. 10/010,123

Claim 4 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 1, wherein said texturizing members are positioned to said inner upper surface of said sole portion to cooperate and to engage at least the sole of the user's foot.

Claim 5 (Canceled).

Claim 6 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 1, wherein said sealing means ~~are an~~ includes interlocking hoop and loop member members.

Claim 7 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 1, wherein said sealing means ~~are~~ include at least one snap members member.

Claim 8 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 1, wherein said lower surface of said sole portion includes traction members thereon to provide protection of the flexible shoe during usage and to provide engagement with the supporting surface.

Claim 9 (Currently amended): A shoe for providing the therapeutic treatment of a user's foot, said shoe including an inner waterproof flexible shoe member having a sidewall portion structurally arranged to seal the shoe member about the foot and a sole portion adapted to receive a therapeutic solution therein, said inner shoe member being structurally arranged to receive and enclose the user's foot with the therapeutic solution positioned therearound, with said inner ~~sole~~ portion shoe member having an inner upper surface engageable with the user's foot, with said inner upper surface of said sole portion having flexible texturizing members thereon which engage the user's foot to ~~treat~~ facilitate the medical effectiveness of the therapeutic treatment of the same foot during movement of the user's foot within the shoe; and an outer cover member enclosing said inner waterproof shoe member and having a sidewall portion and a sole portion having [[a]] an outer lower surface engageable with a supporting surface to permit movement of the shoe during treatment and protect the inner shoe during the therapeutic treatment of the foot.

In re appln. Anthony Jones
Serial No. 10/010,123

Claim 10 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 9, wherein said flexible texturizing members are elongated fibers secured to said inner upper surface of said sole portion of said inner shoe member.

Claim 11 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 9, wherein said texturizing members are positioned to said inner upper surface of said sole portion of said inner shoe member to cooperate and to engage at least the heel of the user's foot.

Claim 12 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 9, wherein said texturizing members are positioned to said inner upper surface of said sole portion of said inner shoe member to cooperate and engage at least the sole of the user's foot.

Claim 13 (Original): The shoe in accordance with claim 9, wherein said sidewall portion of said outer cover member has an upper end portion having sealing means which secures the shoe to the ankle/leg of the user to prevent escape of the therapeutic solution from the shoe during therapeutic treatment.

Claim 14 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 13, wherein said sealing means ~~are an~~ includes interlocking hoop and loop ~~member members~~.

Claim 15 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 13, wherein said sealing means ~~are~~ includes at least one snap members member.

In re appln. Anthony Jones
Serial No. 10/010,123

Handwritten:
A1
Concluded

Claim 16 (Currently amended): The shoe in accordance with claim 9, wherein said lower surface of said sole portion of said outer cover member includes traction members thereon to provide protection of the flexible shoe during usage and to provide engagement with the supporting surface.

---